

With President's Day coming up soon, we thought it would be fun to take a look back at his elementary school days and review one of young Abe's Progress Reports (or at least what one of them probably looked like). Here goes:

Progress Report

Student: Abe Lincoln — 5th Grader

Subject: Language Arts
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Above Average <input type="checkbox"/> Average <input type="checkbox"/> Needs Improvement	Comments: Abe loves speaking in front of the class. Just last week he climbed onto a stump during recess and delivered a moving speech that we call the, "Playground Address."

Subject: Math
<input type="checkbox"/> Above Average <input type="checkbox"/> Average <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Needs Improvement	Comments: We're working on fractions, and Abe just doesn't get it. I was trying to explain how the number one can be divided into smaller parts, and he argued that, "those parts should stay united."

Subject: Social Studies
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> Above Average <input type="checkbox"/> Average <input type="checkbox"/> Needs Improvement	Comments: Abe is passionate about history, especially wars. He is interested in the strategy it takes to win a long, violent war. Let's hope he never has to use this information!

Subject: Science

- Above Average
- Average
- Needs Improvement

Comments:

Abe is a big fan of science, saying that he wants to know the truth about the world around him. His obsession with the truth is why the other students call him "Honest Abe."

Subject: Physical Education

- Above Average
- Average
- Needs Improvement

Comments:

Abe is not the most athletic student, but he is tall. If only there was a sport where you had to throw a ball into something high in the air, like a basket. Who knows, maybe someday...

Subject: Music

- Above Average
- Average
- Needs Improvement

Comments:

We're trying to put the words to the poem, "The Star-Spangled Banner" to music. It's a bit tricky, but Abe really seems to enjoy the new song!