The Snowday Conundrum shows the terrible predicament that district administrators find themselves in each winter, and how past experience is of no help:

Welcome to Channel 4 weather. There’s a cold front moving in and we may have snow tomorrow...

I’m not going to look foolish this time! Cancel all schools!

...the night before

Superintendent’s Office

...the next morning

What do you know! The weather turned out great after all and the roads are clear!

Welcome to Channel 4 weather. There’s a cold front moving in and we may have snow tomorrow...

I’m not going to look foolish this time! Keep the schools open!

One Year Later

...the night before

Superintendent’s Office

...the next morning

What do you know! The weather is even worse than predicted and the roads are all clogged!

The Snowday Conundrum shows the terrible predicament that district administrators find themselves in each winter, and how past experience is of no help: